SNOWS, COLD CAUSE DEATH OF A DOZEN

Eastern Half of U. S. Suffering With Return of Winter

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—After a belated visit of winter the eastern portion of the country today was floundering out of the worst snow storm of the season.

The storm, sweeping in on a north-east wind, spread a thick covering of snow from Maine to the Carolinas and westward to the Mississippi Valley. Several low temperatures were recorded in many sections.

The deaths of 12 persons, injury to several others, and numerous minor accidents were attributed to the snow and cold. Shipping was hampered and railroad schedules disrupted. In some sections drifting snow blocked highways while only strenuous efforts by augmented maintenance gangs kept roads open in other portions.

A fall of seven inches brought out the maximum snow fighting force in New York where officials estimated 22,000 men were clearing the lanes of heaviest traffic, with the aid of a huge fleet of plows, scrapers, brushes and trucks.

EUROPE SUFFERS

London, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Miseries of floods which followed severe cold in southeastern Europe, as a consequence of a rapid rise in temperature have now been intensified by return to Arctic conditions.

In Thrace, where at least a million acres are submerged, the intense cold has recurred. Such, also, is the case in Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Belgrade, center of the stricken area, reported a temperature of 17 below zero, Fahrenheit.

Heavy snowfalls were reported over wide areas, reaching far into Greece. Lack of food and coal, owing to disruption of railroad service caused great distress, particularly among the poor.

There is considerable unemployment everywhere with consequent suffering, while in the midst of their misery people of the stricken area are waiting floods which they know must follow the eventual thaw in the river valleys.

SIGNATURES ON CHECKS OF DEAD MAN NOT GENUINE

So Druggist Declares in Trial of Brother for Murder

Tuscola, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Testifying that Walter McAlister's signature on insurance applications and checks paying insurance premiums were not genuine, Mark Barrum, druggist, was a principal state's witness today at the trial of Emil and William Carroll for the murder of McAlister.

Barrum testified he had seen McAlister endorse more than 50 checks and said that purported signatures on three checks introduced as evidence were not McAlister's. The checks were drawn against the claim man's account in payment of premiums for insurance. He gave the same opinion regarding signatures purported to be McAlister's on seven insurance applications.

The state charges that McAlister's insurance, amounting to about $16,500 was a motive for the murder. Emil Carroll and his wife were the beneficiaries. Carroll and his brother, William, are accused of slaying McAlister, Emil's farm hand, and then placing his body in an automobile which was driven into the path of a freight train.

On cross examination the druggist admitted he was no handwriting expert and was not wholly familiar with certain characteristics peculiar to McAlister's handwriting and signature.

Approve Two Men as Radio Commissioners

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The nominations of Arthur Batchelor of Massachusetts, and J. M. Jansky of Minnesota, to be members of the Federal Radio Commission, were approved today by the Senate Interstate Commerce committee on condition that the Senate accept a section in the pending radio bill which fixes the expiration of the terms of radio commissioners on February 23, 1930.

This in effect would give Batchelor and Jansky one year terms in place of the longer periods for which they were nominated.

Before the nominations are acted upon by the Senate, the bill to continue the radio commission as an administrative body for another year must be disposed of.

Burning Out of Cable Delays AP News Distribution

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The burning out of a cable in a street manhole delayed for several hours today the feeding of news from the New York Bureau of The Associated Press to hundreds of newspapers in the eastern and central states.

The cable runs from Associated Press Headquarters at 383 Madison Avenue, near the Grand Central Terminal, to the Western Union Building in Walker Street, more than two miles downtown, where the 350 wires of the cable are directed throughout the nation.

Melting snow presumably flooded a manhole between the Grand Central Terminal and 23rd Street, Western Union officials said, causing a grounding or short circuiting of the cable.

The short circuit occurred shortly after 4 o'clock and although Western Union workmen were put to work immediately, it was several hours before the service was partially restored. Automatic printer service, a telegraphic typewriter, was the only facility affected, and the news organization was able to maintain the relay of some news over Morse wires.

Circuits going to the west with terminals in Chicago, Kansas City, Louisville and other large cities; to New England, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware; and a large group of evening papers in New York City were affected.

Name Flying Field in Honor of Marine

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—One of five flying fields used by United States Marines in Nicaragua has been named in honor of Sergeant F. E. Dowdell of Carbondale, Illinois, killed in action with Nicaraguan rebels.

Three other fields have also been named for service men killed in action in Nicaragua. A fifth field was named in honor of Captain R. J. Archibald of Wheeling, W. Va., who died in a plane crash near Langley Field, Va. He served fifteen months in Nicaragua.

ILLINOIS CITIES PLAN CONTROL OF MOTOR BUS LINES

Can Designate Route and Collect Fees from Companies

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Scores of Illinois cities, and bus companies all over the state, today were beginning to realize the widespread ramifications of a Supreme Court opinion announced Wednesday re-delegating to cities control over busses operating on their streets.

From several downstate communities came reports that city officials planned drawing up city ordinances regulating bus routes. In Springfield the subject was to be discussed in today's city council meeting.

Bus companies, before they can operate in the state, must secure a permit from the Public Utilities Commission. It had heretofore been assumed that this state charter was in lieu of any city license.

This presumption had been affirmed in a previous Supreme Court opinion, in a case brought by the Chicago Motor Coach Company to test the validity of Chicago's bus licensing ordinance. The City of Chicago, following the unfavorable opinion, asked the court for a rehearing; and this week's opinion on the rehearing sustained the validity of city license ordinances.

This is restored, not only to Chicago, but to every city in the state, the important duty of determining whether its streets may be used by public utilities. The court's opinion was clear: "The city council has a right, in its discretion, to grant a license for the occupation of the streets without qualification, or may require a fee therefor."

Can Designate Routes

A practical application is seen in the Springfield situation. Springfield has a union bus station. But the bus company, which may travel, charter, toured the city streets in search of customers before starting to the next town on its route. Stops were made at every hotel. The net result: congestion of traffic, blocked intersections, and heavy traffic over weak streets which wore them out prematurely; and a city helpless to attempt restrictions.

Now, if the city desires, it may designate the routes over which this hypothetical company may travel; may forbid it making the rounds of the hotels; and thus may save the weaker streets from the wear and tear of heavy busses, as well as solving to an extent, traffic problems.

Hold Companion of Dead Woman

Beardstown, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Postponed pending a post mortem examination, a Coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Katie Wilcox, whose frozen body was found near a drainage canal Wednesday, was to resume its hearings this afternoon.

Meanwhile Lyle Todd, 29 years old, is held in jail. Todd is the last person seen with the woman.

Mrs. Petri was last seen alive Monday afternoon by the occupant of a house boat on the Illinois river, who testified that she and Todd tried to enter his boat. They were unsuccessful, he said, and the last he saw of them they were "arguing along. Todd half dragging the woman."

George Farrar, Chief of Police, said Todd told him, following the discovery of the body, that Mrs. Petri had slapped him. Todd exhibited a battered face, Farrar related, and declared "I used this on her."

The condition of the body was such that post mortem was necessary to determine whether or not it showed marks of violence. The Coroner's jury will resume its deliberations as soon as the postmortem is completed.

Peoria Mine Train in Second Accident

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The miners train which was wrecked here two days ago with a loss of six lives and injuries to 200 miners was in another accident today—a broken knuckle cutting off the two rear coaches from the train.

No one was injured, but the miners on the two rear coaches who were left behind, refused to ride further on the train and went home. The train had traveled only about a mile when the knuckle broke. The engineer noticed the loss of the coaches quickly and backed up to pick them up. The miners, however, took their lunch buckets and walked off refusing to enter the coaches.

Thirty-five of the injured in Wednesday's accident were still in hospitals today, although physicians said all were expected to recover unless complications developed.

The coroner's inquest into the fatal accident adjourned yesterday without fixing responsibility for the accident. The train was wrecked by a broken rail, four of the eight coaches toppling down an embankment. Four men were killed outright and two died later.

SEEK BODIES OF TWO MEN HURLED FROM BOAT INTO WATERS OF HORN CR. RAPIDS

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Searchers were penetrating the one mile deep gorge of the Grand Canyon today in an attempt to find the bodies of Fred Johnson, government ranger, and Glenn Sturdevant, Grand Canyon National Park naturalist.

The two men were hurled from a boat yesterday in Horn Creek Rapids, two miles below the point where the famous Bright Angel Trail winds its way to the bottom of the canyon. James P. Brooks, Chief Rangers of

LIFE IN PRISON FOR NEGRO WHO KILLED TEACHER

Jury in Carmi Court Returned Verdict this Morning

Carmi, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Hoyt McMurray, Negro ex-convict, was convicted of the murder of Miss Anna Preher, Carmi school teacher, in a sealed verdict returned today by a jury in Circuit Court here. His punishment was fixed at life imprisonment.

The verdict was reached at 4:45 a. m., after the jury had deliberated all night, and was received by Circuit Judge Roy E. Pearce when court convened shortly after 9 o'clock this morning.

No demonstration followed the reading of the verdict, but the Negro was ordered taken immediately to the Chester state penitentiary to begin serving the term. No motion for a new trial was filed.

Information obtained from jurors this morning was that they once had stood seven to five for sending McMurray to the electric chair. The life imprisonment verdict finally was agreed upon after six ballots.

Miss Preher, well known in Carmi, was slain in her home here December 20, 1928. Her throat was cut with a knife. The state's evidence against McMurray was largely circumstantial. It was contended that the motive for the slaying was robbery. The Negro denied having had any connection with the killing.

In passing formal sentence, Judge Pearce told McMurray that he was "lucky" he did not receive the death penalty. The court said he was surprised that a death penalty verdict was not returned. The Negro made no comment.

SETTLEMENT OF TACNA-ARICA DISPUTE IS DENIED

President Expresses Surprise at Chilean Dispatches

Lima, Peru, Feb. 22.—(AP)—President Leguia of Peru, in an interview with The Associated Press, expressed surprise at dispatches from Santiago, Chile, reporting final settlement of the Tacna-Arica boundary dispute between Peru and Chile and denied that this long pending problem already was solved.

The President said that he was unable to say that a plan sponsored by Alexander P. Moore, American Ambassador to Peru, was acceptable or practical for Peru. This plan of the American Ambassador by which in rough outline Tacna would go to Peru and Arica to Chile was along the lines which the Chilean dispatches have insisted represented the final settlement of the controversy.

"Respecting the time when the problem is solved if the plan is acceptable. I will say it will be necessary to wait some weeks," the President said. "Before announcing any decision on the part of the Peruvian government it is necessary to consult Congress and the foreign affairs committee as well as all some other formalities."

Finally the President reiterated the wish to make it known that the Peruvian government denies all reports stating that Peru's chief international problem already has been definitely solved.

RECOMMEND VARE BE DENIED SEAT IN SENATE OF U. S.

Special Committee of the Senate Submitted Report Today

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Senate's special investigating committee today submitted a final report recommending that William S. Vare, Republican, be denied a seat as Senator from Pennsylvania.

The committee took into consideration, however, the previous declaration of the Senate that Vare be given an opportunity to present his case personally and declared that "in view of the present physical and mental condition" of the Senator-elect it was for the Senate to determine "what action is proper in the premises."

Vare is now confined to a sick bed in Florida and Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, the chairman of the special committee, has indicated he will be guided entirely by the decision of the Senate. It is not expected that action against Vare will be pressed in the closing days of this session.

Protests Termination

On the basis of the committee's first report on its inquiry into Vare's record, the Republican Senators, in the House of Representatives, today nominated in Pennsylvania in 1926, the Senate declined to administer the oath of office to him.

Sensor King, Democrat, Utah, submitted a minority report from the committee protesting against closing the committee's inquiry until Vare had been given an opportunity to be heard. King also made the suggestion that Vare be sworn in before the Senate took final action.

"The record as it now stands," said King's report, "would warrant action by the committee to advise to the right of Mr. Vare after being sworn in, to retain his seat in the Senate, but in view of his serious physical condition and his desire to be heard by the committee and perhaps offer further testimony, I am unwilling to close the case and submit a final report to the Senate. In my opinion a further reasonable time should be given Mr. Vare to present his case to the committee."

Other members of the committee including Senators McNary (Oregon); Coffey (West Virginia); and La Follette, Wisconsin, all Republicans, joined in the report of Chairman Reed.

The voluminous report cited in detail the evidence disclosed by the committee in its inquiry in 1926 into the Republican primary campaign in Pennsylvania and its later investigation into the returns in Philadelphia.

Dying Mother's Wish Honored by Judge in Accepting Her Will

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A dying mother's wish that her children be kept from their father was granted by Judge Henry Horner yesterday. He honored a will written by Mrs. Daisy Lee Malsch just before she died Saturday, in which she left her entire estate to her mother, particularly the care and custody of her two daughters. She and Malsch were divorced in 1924.

ASHTON CASE IN COUNTY COURT IS SENSATIONAL

Principals Interrupt Proceedings to Use Short, Ugly Word

A crowd of spectators, which would have taxed the capacity of the County Court room found seats in the Circuit Court this morning when the trial of the case brought by Mrs. Martha Lichty of Bradford township, against George Meister, aged 66, of Ashton, started before County Judge Leech today. Mrs. Lichty charges that the aged, retired Ashton township farmer who last week was married a second time, is the father of her four months old baby girl born October 22, of last year.

The two principals in the case testified this morning before a jury which had been selected and Meister had completed his testimony at noon, when Judge Leech recessed court until 1:30 this afternoon. At one stage of Meister's testimony, when he answered questions denying ever having had improper relations with Mrs. Lichty, the woman, who was seated by State's Attorney Mark Keller, announced in no mild term, "You are lying."

"Well, you told this when you was up here, too, and I am not lying," Meister managed to answer to her charge before Judge Leech could restore order, and instruct the attorneys to proceed with their questioning. Judge Leech found it necessary several times to rap for order when spectators burst into laughter at the answers to questions and explanations made from the witness stand by both of the principal witnesses.

State's Attorney Mark Keller appeared for Mrs. Lichty, and she was the first witness to testify. The prosecution rested at the completion of the woman's testimony and Meister was the first witness in his own defense. Attorney H. A. Brooks appeared for Meister and it was expected that a large number of witnesses would be present for the afternoon session.

PROSECUTION BOOTLEG RING HAS COLLAPSED

But Six of the Original Defendants Left for the Trial

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Conspiracy prosecution designed to clean up an alleged influential bootleg ring of western Illinois has all but collapsed in federal court here. With the two principal defendants abducted or absconded, seven others winning separate trials, five pleading guilty and the conspiracy charges against six being nolle, only six of the original 26 defendants are left.

George H. Watkins, bondsman for Albert Blewett, alleged "king of the bootleggers," and Helen Clarke, appeared in Springfield today to protest forfeiture of the bonds. Watkins said he is convinced Blewett and the Clarke woman have been kidnapped. The only clue to their disappearance was a note left for Blewett's attorney, which said: "We have put Blewett where he won't talk."

Carl Merkey, salesman of Quincy, reported he saw Blewett and the driving near Detroit, Ill., on route 36.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

FOUND CHILD'S SLED.
A child's sled which was found in an alley by one of the members of the police department, was taken to the station, where it is being held awaiting the claim of the owner.

WORKMAN INJURED.
Curtis Gilbert, employed by a contracting firm engaged in the construction of the new power plant of the Sandusky Cement Company east of the city, was cut and bruised about the head this morning while at his work. He was taken to the Dixon public hospital in an ambulance, where his injuries were dressed. At the hospital, it was reported that his injuries were not considered of a serious nature.

ATTENDED FUNERAL.
The funeral of Mrs. Patrick Graham, which was held Monday morning was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. Those from out-of-town who were present, were: Mrs. Harry Vandenberg and daughter Dorothy of Toledo, Ohio; John Graham of Chicago; Owen Graham, of Freeport; Mrs. Kate Martin of Wheaton; Mrs. Winnie Cook, of Lake Forest; John Porter and George Bubel of LaSalle.

AUTO DEALERS MEET.
About 50 Nash dealers and their service managers are assembled in Dixon today in a conference relating to the administrative end of the service business. The conference was being held at the Frank Hoyle garage and dealers attending were from Rock Island, Kewanee, Streator, Ottawa, DeKalb, Freeport and many smaller cities in the northern section of Illinois. The conference is sponsored by the Nash Motors Co. and the sessions were conducted by W. S. Nathan, service manager of the Brewer-Brady Nash Co. of Chicago, distributors of the cars in Illinois.

CARRIER THANKFUL.
Rural Carrier Charles Beede of Route 1, says he is grateful to his patrons for repeated kindness in assisting him out of snow drifts during the several winter months. He was pulled out of drifted roads eight times in two days. It is indeed gratifying to the local postoffice organization to know that sort of spirit is displayed by rural patrons and it is believed that this friendly feeling exists generally among rural carriers and their patrons.

WOMAN IS DETAINED.
Chief Van Bibber of the police department was informed this morning that a woman giving the name of Mabel O'Connell, was being detained at police headquarters at Davenport, Iowa. The Davenport police were making an effort to locate relatives and learned that the woman had been an inmate of the Dixon state hospital, having been committed from Rockford and released in October, 1927, by the order of Judge Carpenter of that city.

According to the report, the woman had also been detained by Des Moines police some time ago and that time claimed to be married, stating that her husband lived near Harmon in this county. She is said to have been a former resident of Milton and Delavan, Wis.

CAR, PARTLY DEMOLISHED, DISCOVERED

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The killers' car used in last week's gang massacre has been found, police said today, in a garage not three miles from the scene of the multiple murder.

Efforts to destroy it led to the discovery, for an acetylene torch used to cut through the steel frame ignited the garage. Firemen, finding the machine, called police; and police, after a careful survey including the photographing of fingerprints inside the garage and on parts of the car, believed themselves near solution of the worst gang outrage in Chicago's history.

Expect Quick Solution.
Early today Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege said: "There is good reason to believe the Moran murders will be cleared up within a few hours."

Arrests followed quickly after police established to their own satisfaction the identity of the automobile. Half a dozen had been made by mid-right, and shortly before dawn a squad went out on a secret mission which Lieut. William Cusack, squad leader, said would solve the slayings.

Police Commissioner Russell's sweeping command for a search of all garages or other buildings fronting on alleys probably prompted the hurried effort to destroy the motor car. The Commissioner's order was directed primarily at mopping up the city's liquor supply, much of which is believed to be stored in garages or other alley buildings. It apparently created alarm in an entirely unexpected quarter—among the killers themselves.

Likely Police Autos.
The machine was a 1928 model touring car of the type used by mobile squads of the Police Department. It was found almost completely dismantled, with identifying marks removed, with two wheels off and with parts of the body burned or cut away by a hacksaw and acetylene torch which were found in the garage. A small siren, such as is used on police cars, was found nearby. The tires, all new, had been stripped from the rims. The radiator had been taken off and was standing against the wall.

A grey fedora hat and a Luger automatic pistol were found in the garage.

Seek a "Mr. Rogers"
The owner of the garage, located in the heart of "Little Sicily," is Leo Joppet, who operates a grocery store. He told of renting the garage on February 12—two days before the gang killing—to a "Mr. Rogers" who said he wanted it for a month and paid in advance.

"Rogers" gave his address as 1837 West North avenue, which was found to be fictitious. That address, however, is next door to "The Circus" cafe, a playground for gangsters and a favorite hangout, police said, for those who follow the leadership of Al Capone. It is across the street from the home of Pasquino Lolorio, slain successor to the Stellan gang leadership following the slaying of Tony Lombardo, pal of Capone.

"The Circus" was raided two weeks ago and a machine gun was found. Police returned last night and made several arrests.

Persons living near the Joppet garage told of strange goings and comings during the past week, but none apparently had taken part in or notice of the men.

Joppet was taken to the identification bureau where he sought to find a picture of "Mr. Rogers" in the rouses' gallery. Police would not say what the result of the visit was.

Experts from the automobile detail of the detective bureau today began a minute examination of the partly burned automobile. They explained the fact that the engine number and serial number of the car have been destroyed will not greatly hinder them because there are more than a dozen other numbers of various parts of an automobile by which ownership can be traced through the factory. It was these numbers the experts were busy in hunting.

Harry Stansbury, Assistant State's Attorney, and Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege at the conclusion of a long conference refused to discuss the theory on which they are working or the facts they have learned.

"We've let you newspapermen picture us as juggling 14 or 15 theories about these murders," Stansbury (Continued on page 2)

MISSING CHILD IS FOUND: THREE TO BE ACCUSED

Girl, Missing a Week, Located by Frisco Officers Today

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Doris Virginia Smith-Murphy, who disappeared from a playground here a week ago, was returned safely to her parents today.

For the last week the child had been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp. Sharp and his wife said today they believed Doris was their daughter, Betty, and told a story of being reunited by a stranger. They said they had not seen their child for many months.

Mrs. Helen Murphy, when told of the discovery, suffered a near collapse. When she met the child she identified her without hesitation.

Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson said that two men and a woman would be charged with kidnapping. He said the three, two of whom were presumably Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, were under arrest.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

WALL ST. TAKES VACATION UNTIL MONDAY MORNING

No Trading on the Stock Exchange Today or Tomorrow

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Wall street was practically deserted today, and will remain so until Monday. As today, Washington's Birthday, is a legal holiday, all banks, security and commodity exchanges were closed. With stock trading having fallen off this week to the lowest volume in about two months, stock exchange members admitted that they could afford to pass up the two hour Saturday session, and following their example the curb market and most other markets decided to take a three-day vacation.

The banks will be open as usual on Saturday, and as the Chicago Board of Trade will hold its regular Saturday session, the wheat market on the New York Produce Exchange will remain open. The New York Cotton Exchange will be closed for trading, although its offices will remain open. The rubber, metal, silk, coffee and sugar, and Cocoa exchanges will be closed.

Unlike the Saturday stock exchange closing of two weeks ago, clerks and office forces will have a real holiday this time, as the exchange and member offices will be closed. Stock market traders left for their three-day holiday in a rather more peaceful frame of mind, as stock prices, despite the reduced volume of trading, generally turned upward this week, after the sharp breaks of the past two weeks, resulting from the Federal Reserve Board's structure on excessive use of credit for speculation, and the Federal Reserve Advisory Council's unqualified approval of the board's stand.

Alleged Swindlers Given Continuance

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A ten day continuance was granted Dr. John J. Seiler and his manager and secretary, Pascal R. Juliano, when they were arraigned here today on confidence game charges.

Representing himself as a health expert connected with the state department of health, Dr. Seiler came here several weeks ago and collected sums from a number of merchants by boosting their products in talks before service clubs. After one talk he was told that the service club did not welcome advertising talks, and before the firms could recover their money Seiler and his companion left town. They were arrested at Davenport Tuesday.

Police here said they also suspect the men of complicity in the robbery of a local jewelry store but have preferred no formal charges. Although they have returned the money to the merchants, the state's attorney is determined to prosecute.

Hack, who had not returned his contract mailed to him several weeks ago, put in his appearance at the club office today and after a few minutes consultation with President W. L. Veeck put his name on the dotted line. Wilson will leave with the remainder of the squad for the Cubs training camp on Catalina Island tomorrow.

Pork Averted Meat Shortage in 1928

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—An abundance of pork was declared in a report of the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Animal Industry to have averted a possible meat shortage in the United States during 1928.

The developments of the year in meat production and consumption were reported by the Bureau to have been similar to those of 1927, although more pronounced, including a continued upswing in hog and lamb slaughter and a continued downswing in the beef supply. Pork production showed an increase of 854 million pounds in 1928 over the preceding year; lamb and mutton increased 26 million pounds and beef slaughter decreased 744 million pounds.

ROCKEFELLER VS. STEWART WAR OF WORDS RESUMED

Each Camp Takes Verbal Rap at Other in Statements

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A new exchange of verbal barrages today marked the campaign being waged by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to put Col. Robert W. Stewart out of the Chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The Rockefeller committee made public a letter to an unnamed west banker in which it was asserted that "we can grasp the truth of all Col. Stewart's incredible story and still on his own admission, we must come to the conclusion that he has lost the right to our confidence."

Albert L. Hopkins, Col. Stewart's personal attorney, issued a statement saying that the Rockefeller committee's document, "repudiates the 72-page document issued by Mr. Rockefeller's brother-in-law, for in it he frankly admits that the effort of Mr. Aldrich to involve Col. Stewart with Teapot Dome and Secretary Fall in that document was unwarranted by any facts known to anyone."

The letter to the "midwest banker" sums up the Rockefeller position in four questions regarding whether the stockholders can have confidence in a chief executive who had conducted himself as the Rockefeller committee charges Col. Stewart did in the Continental Trading Company transactions.

The answer from the Stewart contingent declared that the main issue is whether Col. Stewart is the right man to head the company and concludes that he is on the showing of his record.

Eight Indicted in San. Dist. Scandal

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Daily News today said it had learned that the grand jury is to be asked to indict eight of the trustees of the Chicago Sanitary district under the administration of former President Timothy J. Crowe.

There are nine members of the board, Henry A. Berger, The News said, is the only member who will not be named in the request for indictments. Berger was appointed to fill a vacancy and has not served a full term.

The indictments, the paper said, will be sought on charges of theft, growing out of pay-roll padding and the awarding of contracts.

Investigators for the state's attorney have reported they already have found where $1,000,000 was spent in 1928 for contract work that should have been obtained by bidding, although no bids were asked and the work was paid for by voucher.

Evidence is to be laid before the regular county grand jury next Monday, the State's Attorney said.

PRESIDENT-ELECT LET UP ON MANY MEETINGS TODAY

Observed G. Washington's Birthday With Fewer Conferences

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover had mapped out for himself a quiet observance of Washington's birthday today with fewer political consultations on his program than has been usual since his return from South America.

He welcomed a day of greater solitude in which he would have an opportunity to digest the results of the conferences with party leaders he had held lately and reached definite conclusions both as to the major appointments he will have to make and as to the policies he will pursue and recommend on the opening of his administration.

His inaugural address, although almost finished, has yet to undergo final revision and in certain parts actual elaboration and the President-elect hopes to make definite progress toward its completion in the course of the day.

The selection of suitable cabinet and major diplomatic appointments have constituted Mr. Hoover's chief occupation lately. Yesterday numerous prominent possibilities were reviewed by him in addition to discussion of the general political situation with congressional leaders.

Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, concluded a day of almost constant conference with the president-elect by remaining as a dinner guest at his house last night. His conversations with Mr. Hoover aroused much interest not only because he is known to be a very close friend who has figured prominently in Mr. Hoover's plans for the next administration but because the report was spread that he had carried out for the President-elect a survey of various names suggested for the secretaryship of labor.

Rum Runners Outwit Custom's Officials

Detroit, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Two customs border patrol inspectors were injured this afternoon by rum runners who forced their car into a ditch after the inspectors had shot a man who prevented them from over-taking a truck loaded with liquor. Leonard Fortney, 33, and H. F. Baker, 25, attempted to halt the truck, and Duke Prampton, 27, of Wyandotte drove his car into their path. They fired at the car, a shot striking Prampton in the back. The customs men continued the chase but three cars encircled them and finally drove them into a ditch, causing their car to overturn. They were taken to the Wyandotte general hospital, where it was learned their injuries were not serious. Prampton was in a critical condition at the same hospital.

New Mexico Senate Passes New Dry Law

Sante Fe, N. M., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The New Mexico Senate has passed a substitute prohibition measure for the famous New Mexico "one quart" law which permits the possession of a quart of liquor so long as it is not for sale or barter.

The bill, among other things, would make it a penalty for one person to receive from or take a drink with another, and it would classify as a "common nuisance," the home of any person in which a drink was served.

Passage of a new prohibition enforcement bill was part of the state Republican platform and Senators who opposed the measure characterized it as "an unconstitutional, political farce which opens the door to malicious prosecution."

Four Killed, Four Hurt in Explosion

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, cream, poached egg on spinach, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cassole of vegetables, apple and raisin salad, rye bread and butter, sandwiches, cottage pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Lamb chops, potatoes au gratin, stewed celery and carrots, lettuce with Roquefort cheese dressing, canned green peas, plain cake, milk, coffee.

This dinner is planned for the housekeeper's afternoon "out." If the potatoes are cooked and dried in the morning, the whole meal can be prepared in 30 minutes from the time the cook puts on her apron. The cake, of course, was baked in the morning and the lettuce washed and crisped ready to use.

Casserole of Vegetables

One cup dried lima beans, 2 cups diced celery, 1-2 cup minced green pepper, 4 medium-sized onions, 2 cups canned tomatoes, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons butter.

Wash beans and soak over night in cold water to cover. In the morning cook until tender, letting water cook away as much as possible without burning. Drain off surplus water and add celery, pepper, onions peeled and sliced, tomatoes, salt, pepper and butter. Turn into a buttered casserole and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Thin slices of bacon can be arranged over the top before baking and the butter omitted if preferred.

Mrs. Paulsen Talks at Open Club Meeting Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. H. D. Bills, chairman of the Child Welfare Department of the Woman's club and her committee will have charge of the club meeting on Saturday afternoon at the Christian church at which time, Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen of Chicago is to give a lecture on "The New Generation." The Woman's club is surely to be commended for the efforts put forth in bringing to Dixon speakers of the calibre of Mrs. Paulsen who has a nation wide reputation as a speaker.

She talks at the Christian church at 2:30.

The meeting tomorrow is an open meeting and the public will surely take advantage of hearing this wonderful lecturer whose press notices are very flattering. Mrs. Paulsen knows children—she knows human nature. Her demands are brimful of facts and helpful suggestions. Every one, child, youth and growing should hear her message. They will be better citizens for having done so.

"Chicago Rotary Club—Gee, she knows us like a book," was the whispered comment of one young man when Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen, noted lecturer and psychologist, drove home a plain truth regarding men in one of her lectures given during the week of March 14th to 20th, under the auspices of the Rotary Club of Chicago.

The Rotary Club certainly booked a headline act in Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen's address last Thursday. The talk from start to finish was a double-header—both an entertainment and an education to all who heard it.

I decided that if there was to be any reproof given to the young bairns in the future, it should always be done behind the barn.

I have heard many other Rotarians speak most enthusiastically about Mrs. Paulsen's talk. It is such programs that make Rotary mean so much to us and which help to develop the spirit of Rotary.

ANOTHER KNOCK FOR CALIFORNIA'S "PERFECT" CLIMATE

Alderman William Boyd of Morrison has returned home from Los Angeles, Cal., where he had intended spending about two months. It was too cold for him there, he says, and the air was so thick with smoke from the smudge pots in the orchards that it made breathing disagreeable. The temperature was as low as 17 above zero while he was there, and the cold damp air was very penetrating.

HAS BEEN ENTERTAINING NEW YORK GUEST

Mrs. William Sullivan has been entertaining a guest from New York. Mrs. John C. Ostrup, who is on her way to Winnipeg, Canada, and who has now resumed her journey.

Happy Evening at The Newcomer Home

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rowland and Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Newcomer entertained most delightfully at the Newcomer home with an evening of bridge. There were guests for eight tables. Tulips in orchid and yellow were the very attractive decorations, with the tallies harmonizing many lovely potted plants. After bridge most tempting refreshments were served, and these were carried out in the patriotic colors, honoring George Washington.

Mrs. George Cornelius was awarded the favor for high honors at bridge for the ladies and Mrs. I. E. MacLaren was awarded the second favor. For the gentlemen H. A. Roe won the favor for high score, while Ray Miller received the second favor.

It was generally conceded that this was one of the most enjoyable parties of the winter season.

H. S. P. T. A Met at School on Wednesday

The H. S. Parent Teacher Association met at the south side high school Wednesday afternoon. An interesting program had been prepared by a committee of teachers. A pageant, "The Highway of the Kings" was presented by a number of students directed by Miss Enotho and Miss Scott, after which Miss Burnham talked interestingly on "The Value of Mathematics." This was followed by a demonstration presented by several students from the Commercial Department under the direction of Miss Jones and Miss Kinsella. There was a short business meeting, during which Mrs. Thompson presented the subject of the Civic Music Association, and its value to school children. A social hour was enjoyed, a committee of teachers serving refreshments.

Judge Edwards Likes Jacksonville, Florida

Mrs. Eva A. Edwards, of Hennepin avenue, mother of Judge Harry Edwards, has received a letter from her son, at Jacksonville, Fla., where he and his wife are enjoying the milder climate of the southern state. Judge Edwards writes his mother that Jacksonville is the business city of the state, and that it is almost like a northern city in its appearance and ways. He says it is certainly good to see the flowers blooming and to see all kinds of fruits and vegetables from the gardens such as we will not have from our home gardens for three or four months. To see the gardens and hear the birds sing is worth the trip down south. Judge and Mrs. Edwards are enjoying their vacation very much.

St. James Ladies Aid Held Meeting

The St. James Ladies Aid Society was entertained by Mrs. Charles Whitebread, Mrs. Orville Albright and Mrs. Herbert Schumacher at the beautiful new home of Mrs. Orville Albright in an all day social meeting on Wednesday, the twentieth of February.

The members and guests numbered about fifty. The Albright home was gay with patriotic decorations in keeping with Washington's birthday. Mrs. Whitebread and daughters served a delicious chicken noodle dinner at the noon hour.

Valentine decorations and favors were exceptionally pretty. After bridge and during the happy social hour very tempting refreshments were served, completing the enjoyment of all present.

West—
Leads ♠ 2

South (Declarer)—
♠ A 9 7 2
♥ K 9 3
♦ A 5 3
♣ K 8 6

The Bidding: South bids no-trump and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads 2 of hearts which East covers with 10 of hearts; Declarer must take this trick with King of hearts immediately or he may lose it. How should the diamond suit now be played?

The Error: Declarer leads Ace of diamonds. He then plays 5 of diamonds which is covered by West with 10 of diamonds, overtaken by Dummy's Queen and won by East with King of diamonds. As a result of this play Declarer does not frame.

The Correct Method: To frame Declarer must make four tricks in diamonds. Opponents hold five cards in diamonds that are probably distributed West: Jack and two minor cards; East: King and one other, or vice versa. Declarer after playing Ace of diamonds should duck the next trick no matter what card West may play and in all probability King of diamonds will fall, the remaining diamonds being established and game made.

The Principle: When holding Queen and four minor cards in Dummy and Ace and two others in closed hand or vice versa, at no-trump duck the second time played and the probability is that four tricks may be made thereby.

THOUSANDS HAVE MADE LITTLE CHANGE IN CHILD CHARACTERISTICS

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A thousand years have made little, if any, change in little children.

On this, George Washington's birthday anniversary, Orville T. Bright, Jr., Superintendent of Schools in Dolton, delivered a radio address here today for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers telling them that their children "follow their instincts and instincts have not changed much," but that for adolescents, the "juniors and seniors of high school the times have worked great changes.

Parents, he said, must realize the problem and deal with it adequately. He said that the "sacred and nearly instinctive American family circle," he declared, would be one big step toward that end.

"Most of us who are parents of adolescent children," he said, "were children ourselves twenty-five or more years ago. And most of us attempt to rear our children as we were reared. When a problem arises we seek a similar one back in our own past lives—and what a very very different age was ours!"

"Raised in an age when autos were curiosities, when airplanes, radios and movies were unheard of; when the idea of war dated safely back to the tales of our grandfathers of the Civil War, when murders were rare, the bicycle was dangerous and a cable car was quite speedy enough to thrill us—reared in such an age small wonder is it that we feel helpless now."

But is this any reason why we must quit entirely as parents? We owe to our children a good training that will keep them clean, and strong and fit them for responsible citizenship. We assumed the obligations of parenthood and we must "carry on."

"And let me say for the present day high school age of boys and girls, that after years of close contact with them, I believe them better, finer, healthier, more intelligent than any crop thus far."

"This in spite of their mistakes. But paralleling this we must bear in mind that the dangers that surround them are infinitely greater. The auto means the opportunity to escape the eyes of the world easily and quickly. The movies, while of great value in many ways, are apt to bring sex stimulation, and the stimulation of the spirit of adventure and of brutality.

"The public dance hall brings a new danger. "Petting parties, hip-liquor and all-night dances are bad. The indecent display of bare knees, the excessive use of cosmetics are bad—but are not to recognize them as bad and then go on ways?"

"To rave and rant about the present-day evils is a waste of time. To ray the present generation of boys and girls is going to the dogs is futile.

"We cannot pass laws to regulate goodness. Goodness could never be legislated into anyone. A law to be enforced must have the support of a large majority and it is our job as parents to produce that majority. It is our job to understand the jazzy young people and to gear them down and ourselves up to a common level of respect and trust.

"One way to secure this is companionship—father—mother and child. To take our children places; to ball games, on tramps and picnics, to the theater, to dances and parties, on fishing trips and shopping trips.

"Another way might be to reestablish that sacred and nearly extinct institution the American family circle. The evening at home where the whole family is doing something together—reading, playing games, singing, enjoying music. Singing together the old songs and the new.

"The trouble with so many of us parents is that in this speeded, pleasure-made, money-mad world we have forgotten our children. We expect them to stand quietly hunched until we have time to remember them again. We return to find they have broken their halters and set off on their own ways without us and now they are running away from us, and all we do is vainly about "whoa."

"It is also the age of puppy-love and puppy-love is seldom serious if we parents don't interfere. That doesn't mean to relax vigilance. It simply means not to actively interfere. To order a boy and girl not to see each other is to drive them in to each other's arms. So often in puppy-love the young lovers don't see each other as they are at all but each sees in the other an imaginary person—an ideal—that doesn't exist."

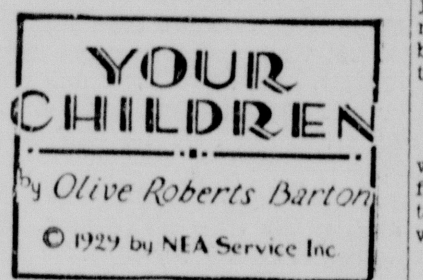

"It is an age of temperamental changes—of impatience with restraint.

"We must recognize these characteristics and deal with the child wisely."

"Gossip is one of our favorite indoor sports, and no class of society has come in for any more gossip than our high school boys and girls. We hear terrible tales of misconduct and immorality going on in our high schools."

"As a matter of fact what there is of misconduct among high school boys and girls doesn't go on in our high schools but outside them. And we parents are responsible morally and legally for the conduct of our children outside of school hours."

"Therefore it is directly up to us as parents to shoulder this responsibility. If there is anything seriously wrong with these young people we and we only are to blame. Let us realize this, let us look upon the bright side, realizing there is a dark side but not letting its shadow overcast the bright. Let us resolve to make of these splendid boys and girls a finer race of men and women—and when we have done this, and only then may we take pride in our parenthood."

When does a child feel justified in disobeying? Here are some of the reasons:

If he thinks you are indifferent and don't really care whether he obeys or not.

If he thinks the law he oversteps is of no importance.

If it is impossible for him to obey on account of some unusual circumstance.

If he sees his parents breaking the same law.

If he possesses more knowledge about a certain subject than his parents, and knows he possesses it.

But more than for any other reason a child will disobey, and feel justified in doing so, if he gets the idea that certain rules made for him are unjust.

I know that many parents believe in unquestioning obedience. And that is as it should be. Obedience should be unquestioning. But if obedience is questioned, then the chances are that there is a good reason for questioning it and for disobedience, particularly if the offense is often repeated.

Disobedient—But Why?

of authority in any particular thing. I should begin to think it over. Is he wrong or is the trouble with you and the law you have made?

Is the law reasonable? Are you sure the thing you are asking him to do is right, just, and fair?

If you are convinced that you are not playing tyrant and not demanding something out of all bounds, then consider the other things.

Is it a foolish thing you demand? Does your child think it a law worth obeying? Does he respect it?

Maybe it is something you know absolutely nothing about, while he is well informed. You may say, "Don't go skating, John, the ice is thin and dangerous," while he himself saw two men making tests and a policeman setting up a sign that read: "Safe! Ice-skating Today."

Again, you may be doing the very thing you won't allow him to do. That is your right, of course, but it is a food for thought. It may be the cause of his feeling privileged to go it too.

Few children deliberately disobey the same law repeatedly unless they feel justified. And you cannot do much about it until you find out the reason for this feeling.

WE KEEP ON HOPING.

In the town of Orrville, O., a four-years-old boy was kidnapped seven weeks ago. Since his disappearance the police have searched everywhere for him. Private citizens have helped. A famous private detective has been retained. But no trace has been found. Apparently he is gone forever.

But the boy's mother still keeps a Christmas tree lighted in the living room of her home. It was just two days after Christmas that the boy disappeared, and the Christmas tree was still standing. The mother has kept it there ever since, with the little chap's toys grouped around it in the floor. Every night the tree is lighted.

"He'll come back, some day," she says. "And when he does he'll be terribly disappointed if the tree isn't there. He loved it so much. So we're keeping it ready for him."

Strange, how people cling to hope. The hardest thing on earth, for most of us, is to accept tragedy at its worst. So long as there is the faintest gleam of hope we will hold fast to it, even though it stretches our misery out over many days and weeks. We can't get ourselves to face the ultimate calamity if there is any way of dodging it.

Yet it may be that this is a good thing.

How many of us are kept going by that fact that deep down we keep the faded remnant of an ancient hope that we long since ought to have discarded? Most of us, probably. We delude ourselves with worn-out dreams, and pretend that the hard reality is softer than it looks; and thereby we manage to keep at work and do our parts in the world.

Probably that's inevitable. All of us start out with high dreams and brave plans. We tell ourselves that some day—ten or twenty years hence—we shall have made the world our oyster and opened it. Perhaps we are after some very material bit of success in the workaday world, or it is a more vague desire to get rich experience and full development of our hidden powers; it doesn't matter, that early desire is the mainspring that keeps us plodding forward.

Unfortunately, most of us miss our aim by a mile. We fail to get the success we had in mind, we fail to achieve the full experience and the emergence of our latent abilities as we had planned; and if we made ourselves realize it, it would be too much for us. So we whistle to keep our courage up. We tell ourselves that some day, somehow, we shall get what we are after, and then everything will be fine.

The Christmas tree, blazing in the Ohio home for a boy who probably will never come back, is a symbol for all of us. And there is in it just a faint ray of encouragement. There is just an outside chance that some day that missing boy will come back. So it is with the rest of us; by a lucky chance, our hidden dreams may yet come true. So we keep on hoping.

125-STORY BUILDINGS?

The American Ceramic Society, preparing for an exposition in Chicago, reveals the invention of a new building material so light and strong that skyscrapers 125 stories high can be built of it.

The new material, it is said, will reduce building costs and, at the same time, will enable architects to plan more daring pinnacles than ever before.

The next thing is for somebody to survey the situation and tell us if we ought ever to allow the construction of such tall buildings. Skyscrapers tend to increase city congestion—a thing that is hampering every city in America. It is quite possible that the construction of many more tall buildings would be a drawback and not a help.

Now that a German scientist has invented paper that won't burn you can write to the fellow who borrowed twenty for a "couple of weeks" last May.

A Washington writer finds there is English blood in 87 out of 95 members of the United States Senate. No wonder it takes 'em so long to see a joke.

The United States produced 68 per cent of the world's oil last year. But surely that figure doesn't include the banana variety offered by Hollywood press agents.

Miss Wilhelmina Robinson of Boston, England, is 100 years old and credits her longevity to the fact she always has detested and despised men. She should live so long!

Jascha Heifetz, violinist, makes $150,000 a year. That makes it appear that a great many people are paying the fiddler.

Seven gangsters killed at once in Chicago! Why, it's enough to break the city's heart!

The men in Sing Sing are no worse than the people outside, says Warden Lawes. That seems reasonable.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KLOCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"The Trouble Tots have gone for good. I'd like to catch them, if I could, but they are 'way up in the sky," said Clowdy with a frown. "They played a right mean trick on us, but it's too late to make a fuss 'cause we don't know of any way to try and bring them down."

"Oh, well," said Scouty, "let's forget that they were ever here. I'll let that we'll have no more trouble. It is better that they're gone. Right now let's run to yonder tree and sleep a while. That just suits me. We all can get a needed rest before another dawn."

So, to the tree they made their way. They'd all been through a busy day. It wasn't any wonder they were tired as they could be. Wee Clowdy gazed up in the sky and shortly whispered, "Me, oh my! Do all you Tinsies see the hundred stars that I can see?"

No answer came, and Clowdy found that all the rest were sleeping sound. He closed his little eyes and soon was lost in slumber land. In just a moment he began to dream. In his youngster can. It seemed that he could plainly hear a very noisy band.

Poor Clowdy squirmed and moved around, and then he jumped up from the ground. This woke him very suddenly, and much to his surprise the other Tinsies stood right near him. Carpy shouted, "Look who's here!" The old Duck Lady, with her duck, stood right before their eyes.

"I am the one who made you small, and now I'm going to make you 'all," said she. "I have some fluid here to do the work." And then she poured some on each Tinsie and everything worked out all right. The Tinsies were shortly back to their old size again.

(The Tinsies start on a new adventure in the next story.)

Does the Oil you're using now have the 4 essentials of complete and proper lubrication?

1. Low Carbon Content
2. Non-fouling Carbon
3. Ideal body at all Operating Temperatures
4. Low Pour Point

Check your present oil for these four characteristics. Every oil, of course, has one of them. A few rate high on two or even three. But only Shell Motor Oil combines them all.

After all Isn't this the real test of motor oil?

THERE is no simple way to check the quality of motor oil. Not color . . . Not the way it feels between the fingers . . . Not even price . . . And not mileage between crankcase changes.

Oil must have four characteristics, engineers say, if lubrication is to be both complete and correct.

Thousands of automobile owners have found one oil—Shell Motor Oil—which meets the requirements in every way.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil report a marked reduction in carbon removal jobs. They enjoy amazing freedom from power losses due to carbon accumulations. That's because Shell has an extremely low carbon content—20 to 33 per cent less than a number of other popular and nationally known oils.

And the small amount of carbon which forms in a motor lubricated by Shell is soft, fluffy and non-fouling. It does not bake on metal surfaces. Instead, it blows out with the exhaust gases.

To the man who thinks all motor oils are alike—we say, "Try Shell—for 30 days"

One complete crankcase change will be enough to show you that there is a difference in motor oils. Put Shell Motor Oil over the road in the hardest kind of service. Shell speaks with performance . . . thrives on comparisons.

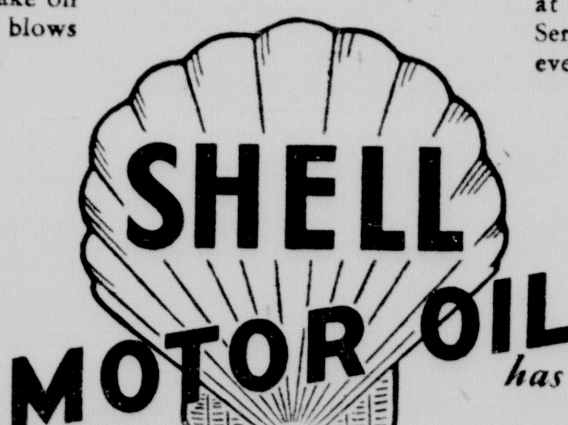

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline starts quickly, burns completely and delivers full power because it's a "dry" motor fuel. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

Shell Motor Oil has body and stamina. It won't break down. It provides the same protection at sixty miles an hour as at twenty. And to body, Shell adds a low pour point for easy starting and immediate lubrication in cold weather.

Shell Motor Oil is today's outstanding development in the science of automobile lubrication. Shell crude comes from handpicked wells. Refined by the new and exclusive Shell-developed, low-temperature process. Never scorched, never weakened in refining. And tested 259 times to check and certify the rich, unvarying quality of every quart.

That quality is adding countless extra miles to thousands of cars like yours . . . and has made Shell one of the best-selling oils in America.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL—and let the Shell Lubrication Chart be your guide . . . You will find courteous attendants at the familiar yellow and red Service Stations . . . Convenient everywhere.

Heaven's harmony is universal love.

Cowper.

Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it: if a man would give all the substance of his house for love, it would utterly be consumed.

Solomon's Song.

GRACE EVANGELICAL CHURCH

North Side
Frank Brandt, Pastor
Christ Died For Our Sins.

Sunday Services—
9:45 Church Bible School. Supt. Lee Lincoln.

10:45 Morning Worship. In the absence of the pastor, R. Fred Krahler will give a message on "How the Bible Came to Us." Daniel Webster said, "From the time that, at my mother's feet or on my father's knee, I first learned to hush verses from the sacred writings, they have had my daily study and vigilant contemplation. If there is anything in my style or thoughts to be commended, the credit is due to my parents in instilling into my mind an early love for the Scriptures."

The Bible is God's Book and it is worth while for each one to know how it came to us and how God has preserved. Be sure and hear the message.

6:30 Christian Endeavor Service.

7:30 Evening service in charge of Fred Krahler.

Mid-Week Service—
7:30 Wednesday—Prayer, praise and Bible study hour. Every member of the family cordially invited.

Christ rose for our justification.

STORY OF LIFE OF CAPT. FRIED IN THIS PAPER

The Telegraph to Begin
Its Publication
Next Monday

Captain George Fried's own life story, "My Thirty Years at Sea," the outstanding autobiography of the year, has been obtained by The Telegraph through its membership in The Associated Press Evening Paper Feature Service and beginning Monday, February 25, will be published in daily chapters.

Writing in his natural style, all the more effective because of its simplicity and directness, Captain Fried tells the inspiring story of a Massachusetts country youth who played sailor beside a yachting home and dreamed of romance, adventure and accomplishment upon the high seas and then, by his bravery and ability, surpassed his own ambitions.

With the same modesty which characterized his terse reports of brilliant achievements at sea, Captain Fried vividly portrays the life of a sailor, the code of mariners, the glamour of foreign ports and strange countries, the tense, frenzied months of sailing enemy-infested waters during the World War and the drama of racing to the assistance of distressed vessels in the face of hurricanes and mountainous waves.

Among the chapters are the following: "Why I Went to Sea," "My Early Experiences," "Facing My First Big Storm," "Learning to Toe the Mark," "Lending a Hand at Rescues," "Stern Discipline of the Sea," "Commanding My First Ship," "Rescuing the Antioch," "A Sailor's Creed of Help," "Quailing at the Hero Business," "Rushing to Save the Florida," "Flashing the News to the A. P.," and "Manning and My Brave Men."

Out of a storm-whipped Atlantic in January, 1926, an "S. O. S." cracked through the air from the British freighter Antioch, foundering in mid-ocean. Captain Fried, commanding the S. S. Roosevelt, raced to the rescue.

For three days his ship circled the disabled Antioch, battling a furious hurricane, launching six life boats and losing two members of the crew before finally saving all on board the Antioch.

Knowing that an anxious world awaited news of the almost hopeless fight to save the Antioch crew,

Captain Fried wirelessly a detailed account of the rescue to The Associated Press, which had requested the story.

A few weeks ago, three years after the Antioch incident almost to the day, Captain Fried again gained world-wide acclaim when he went to the assistance of the sinking Italian freighter Florida, 800 miles off the Virginia capes.

While two other vessels, closer to the indicated position, failed to find the wreck, Captain Fried, aided by his radio compass, drove the S. S. America directly to the Florida, defying a roaring sea, a blinding blizzard and the dangerous position of the doomed ship, a life-boat crew from the America saved every man from the Italian vessel.

Again Captain Fried proved a good reporter and sent the first detailed report of the gripping rescue to The Associated Press. Modestly, he gave credit to his officers and crew.

It is an unusual fact that with all the acclaim, honor and fame nations have heaped upon the gallant captain little has been told of his boyhood days and early manhood, that formative period of training and experience which formed a basis of his success.

With the thought of presenting the real personality and life of Captain Fried, he was persuaded to write his autobiography for The Telegraph.

London—The fathometer, a recent invention which judges water depths from echoes, recently guided the liner Leviathan across the Atlantic. The device transmits electric sounds to the bottom of the ocean from the keel of the ship. The time taken for the return of the sound is used in computing the depth of the water.

THE INAUGURAL PAGEANT

From Washington to Hoover

Washington—(AP)—To the cheers of thousands who stood in pools of water under dripping red, white and blue umbrellas, Gen. Benjamin Harrison, grandson of President William Henry Harrison, rode from the White House to the Capitol March 4, 1889, one of the worst inauguration days in history.

Decorations were sodden and rain-streaked, men wrung the water out of their coats, and many a feminine bang, shingled especially for the inauguration, was ruined.

President-elect Harrison sat with President Cleveland and Senators Hoar and Cockerell in an open carriage drawn by two seal brown and two sorrel horses. General Harrison "smiled behind his beard" as Senator Hoar struggled to raise his umbrella, the ring sliding to the top and the umbrella collapsing.

At the Capitol, General Harrison, disregarding the advice of his associates, insisted on going out on the open portico to deliver his inaugural address to the multitude which had stood for hours in the rain to see the ceremony. One of the most picturesque figures in the parade was the chief marshal, General Beaver, the one-legged and handsome governor of Pennsylvania, who rode his horse, hat in hand, with the rain trickling down his powerful neck.

Although the rain marred the parade festivities, the inaugural ball in the huge pension building was a brilliant affair attended by 12,000 persons. Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Levi P. Morton, wife of the vice-President, wore broadened gowns of American manufacture, and John Philip Sousa, leader of the marine band, composed a "presidential polonaise" especially for the occasion.

The thousands who poured into Washington were greeted at the depot by the howls of hack drivers, hotel runners and fakirs who gave to each purchaser a box of corn salve, a package of inaugural "jewelry." Diamonds sparkled under the gas light, "their deceptive rays catching the eyes of the innocent."

It was the era of gas lights, ginger-bread architecture, plush coats and red damask table cloths. The stores were advertising special sales of Modjeska seal coats, French robes de chambre, muffs and boas. The last word in neckties could be bought for a dollar, grocers were vending lamp chimneys and Washington saloonkeepers were boasting the "best lager beer in America."

Bob Pinkerton returned home from the capital with another feather in his cap, claiming a large share of the credit for keeping the city clean of thieves during the inauguration.

The men's fashion editor of the

New York World thus described the spring style trend:

"It is evident that Ascot scarfs have come to stay. A new shade in spring derbies is smoke color—it is an exceedingly soft and delicate tint. In vests, the notched collar is still the favorite. The dead, or unpolished, finish in collars is considered the proper caper. Highly glossed linen is looked upon as vulgar."

"Some startling effects are to be seen among the recent importations of hosiery, a pronounced design being bottle green flecked with golden butterflies. As an accompaniment to flannel shirts which will be the craze next summer, four-in-hand flannel scarfs are being manufactured."

President Harrison was of a reserved nature and his political enemies said he was cold, proud and austere. He was essentially simple in his tastes and delighted in playing with his children and grandchildren after methodically disposing of the day's executive routine.

He gave a birthday party at the White House March 16, 1891, on the fourth anniversary of his grandson, Benjamin Harrison McKee. A contemporary account says:

"The guests assembled in the Blue room to be led by the President and his grandson to the dining room, where at a round table were 15 high chairs. The centerpiece was a plat of ferns on which were two flags crossed, while at each plate were rush baskets of bonbons, the handles formed of tri-colored ribbons."

"About the table were big dishes of beaten biscuits, especially made for the occasion in the form of little chicks with outspread wings. The menu included bouillon, cakes and cream. The marine band supplied music. The children were waited on by their mothers and nurses and the ladies of the White House. Then the President led the way to the corridor with his namesake and they all danced the Virginia reel."

It is said to be quicker in most cases, to send a telegraph message from Liverpool to London via New York than to try the direct route.

Advertising of the Sunday express train from Liverpool street, London, to Glasgow, increased its passengers by 43 percent.

SPORTS
OF ALL SORTSPURDUE'S HOPES FOR TIE IN BIG TEN ARE FADING

Depend on Outcome of the Game with Ohio U.
This Evening

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Purdue's hopes of winning or tying for the Big Ten basketball championship will rise or fall when it tackles Ohio State's dangerous team at Columbus tonight.

Defeat for Charles "Stretch" Murphy and his Ballmaker mates, who have been groggy since the coming out of the hibernation caused by semester examinations, would virtually eliminate them from championship consideration with six victories and three losses. Victory, however, would boost them into second place in the percentage column, a notch below Wisconsin and a few points ahead of Michigan.

Today Wisconsin is undisputed leader in the race with seven victories and one defeat, while Purdue and Michigan are deadlocked for second place with six triumphs and two defeats.

Ohio State's great combination of sophomores has experienced a peculiar off again, on again season. The Buckeyes lost to Michigan and Iowa, broke even with Northwestern and defeated Chicago and Illinois twice each, piling up 242 points as against their opponents' 236. Michigan defeated them by the largest margin, 34 to 24.

Has Murphy's Rival
In George Van Heyde, Ohio State has the closest rival to "Stretch" Murphy. Van Heyde stands six feet three inches and in eight games he has scored 30 field goals and 14 free throws for a total of 74 points. He doubtless will guard Murphy, who is far ahead of his rival in individual scoring with 98 tallies.

Meanwhile, other Big Ten teams were priming themselves for tomorrow night's combats, which may all but put the title in the bag for Wisconsin or scramble the race again. Wisconsin invades Northwestern and Iowa attacks Michigan in the principal games, while Illinois clashes with Indiana and Minnesota and Chicago fight it out for last place.

Wisconsin routed Northwestern, 37 to 23, at Madison last Monday night, but Coach Walter Meanwell is pessimistic over prospects for another triumph. Michigan trounced Iowa, 36 to 25, at Iowa City, January 12 and is a heavy favorite to repeat.

Indiana, which is experiencing its poorest season in years with but two victories in nine starts, received another blow yesterday when it was announced its captain and star forward, Dale Wells, was scholastically ineligible for further competition.

Harmon Seeking
Loughran's Name

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Promoter Paddy Harmon of the Chicago Stadium today hoped to get Tommy Loughran's signature to a contract, calling on him to defend his light heavyweight title against Mickey Walker, March 13.

Fresh from two victories in the west, Loughran and his manager, Joe Smith, were to arrive here today. Walker and his manager, Jack Kearns, are due in Chicago Tuesday.

Few Will Out-Jump This Creighton Center

If the presence of a giant at center gives a basketball team a distinct advantage, as some coaches say, the Creighton cage outfit certainly has an advantage over their rivals. Their center, Verner Jensen, is so tall he can look over the top of the average automobile easily. He is six feet seven. Jensen also is high scorer of his club. He is shown here with Coach Art Schabinger of the Bluejays alongside the coach's car.

FLASHING FEET OF WILLIAMS IN GREAT EVIDENCEWen Him Canadian Indoor Title in Record Time

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Percy Williams' flashing feet have brought him the Canadian National indoor 60-yard championship in record-equaling time.

The slim Vancouver sprinter, Olympic 700 and 200 meter champion, was beaten in one of the trial heats of the 60-yards at the Canadian national indoor track and field championships here last night but came back to win the final in 6 and one-fifth seconds, equalling the world record.

In the semi-finals, Williams, off to a bad start, was second by half a foot to G. D. Powell, of Toronto, a comparative unknown. Powell failed to place in the finals. Jimmy Fitzpatrick of Hamilton, being third and L. Miller of Hamilton third.

All told the meet developed three other new Canadian amateur records. Harold Osborn of the Illinois A. C. jumped six feet two inches to set a new mark in the high jump. Vic Pickard of the University of Pittsburgh cleared 13 feet in the pole vault and Jimmie Ball, runner-up to Ray Babbitt in the Olympic 400-meter final, clipped two seconds off the Canadian mark for 300 yards.

Phil Edwards of New York University, after breasting the tape first in the 600 yards championship, continued on to the 660-yard mark, equalling the best recorded time for the longer distance—one minute and 21.5 seconds. This mark, set by J. W. Driscoll at Buffalo, is not recognized either as a world's nor American amateur record. It is listed by the A. A. U. among "noteworthy performances." Edwards' time from the yards was 1:13.25 not far from the best indoor mark of 1:11.35 held by Alan Helfrich.

Walker and Willis
Meet in West Today

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Two mighty punchers of the middleweight class, Mickey Walker, the champion, and Jack Willis, San Antonio, Texas cowboy, battle here this afternoon in a 10-round bout, which if not of title significance, at least holds the promise of a great slugfest. The pair met here a year ago in a non-title affair and traded blows from start to finish.

Both fighters have been in training several weeks and are in good condition for the bout which Willis hopes will definitely establish him as a leading challenger for the 160 pound title. Walker, casting eyes at the light heavyweight crown, necessarily must make a good showing. He is to meet Tommy Loughran for the 175 pound title in Chicago next month.

CUBS IN FIRST GAME OF THEIR TRAINING WORKSecond Squad Meeting in Chicago to Depart
Tomorrow

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs have played their first game of the 1929 season.

Continuing to harden the Cub pitchers and catchers, Manager Joe McCarthy yesterday ordered a game to wind up the day's workout. Captained on one side by Pat Malone and by "Gabby" Hartnett, the practice contest wound up with a score of 5 to 3 in favor of Malone's team. Hal Carlson, right handed regular, pitched what approximated three innings, each side was allowed six outs per inning. Joe Bush and Art Nehf, two other veterans of the Cubs hurling staff, finished.

Carlson appears to be coming through in great shape, and the idea was prevalent that he is getting back to his old form. The Atlanta rookie, Tom Angley, gave the audience a few thrills in the way he swung on the pellet, making several good drives. Angley held a batting average of .336 last year with Atlanta.

SECOND SQUAD MEETS
Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The second squad of the Chicago Cubs, including Rogers Hornsby, Kiki Cuyler, Riggs Stephenson and Captain Charlie Grimm, began assembling today for the departure for the Catalina Island training camp.

Hack Wilson, slugging outfielder, is the only member of the club who is causing any speculation. Wilson has not been heard from since he received his contract. President William Veck of the Cubs believes Wilson will bring the signed contract with him and depart with the others tomorrow.

Danny Cahill, the staunchest Cub fan, will be honored for his loyalty by being placed in charge of the second squad.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Alphonse Thomas, ace of the White Sox pitching staff, has returned his signed contract, lifting another load of worry off owner Charles A. Comiskey's shoulders.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The largest supply of radium ever received in the midwest—two five-fills of an ounce—has been placed at the disposal of Chicago doctors for treatment of cancer sufferers.

The shipment, enough to treat thousands of cases, arrived last night and was taken under guard to a bank. It is valued at $149,050 and will be lent to doctors so that all cancer patients, even those with limited funds, will be able to benefit by radium treatment.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Nathan Leopold, one of the "thrill killers" of Bobby Franks, was in solitary confinement in the state penitentiary today. He was moved to "solitary" after prison authorities found he had constructed a stove in his cell and was cooking midnight meals. For fuel he used alcohol fished from the prison ration shops.

GEN. WASHINGTON
WOULDN'T KNOW
AN INAUGURATIONThe First President Went from Mt. Vernon to
N. Y. for Oath

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Feb. 22.—If George Washington, first president of the United States, should return to the country he fathered to witness the inauguration of Herbert Hoover here March 4, he probably would have to recognize the ceremony as the lineal descendant of his own inauguration. The contrast between the United States of Washington's time and the United States of today is nowhere better shown than by a comparison of Washington's first inaugural with Hoover's.

Not that there wasn't plenty of pomp and display when the country swore in its first president. There was—lots of it. But the whole thing was pitched to a different key. The proceedings in Washington's day were slower, more deliberate, and—despite the formal ceremony of the present day—somehow more dignified.

Millions Hear It Now
Hoover, now sojourning in Florida, will come quietly to Washington by private car, the journey taking less than 24 hours and passing without much comment. On the day of the inaugural he will head a great parade to a huge temporary wooden stand built in front of the capitol, where, in the sight of many thousands of his fellow countrymen, he will take the oath, kiss the Bible and deliver his address.

Overhead the mighty dirigible Los Angeles and a host of airplanes will circle and dip. Telegraph wires will carry accounts of the proceedings to every town in the country. The radio will enable millions of Americans to hear every word that is said. Newspaper photographers will take countless pictures and the pictures will be sent by telephoto wires all over the country so that people on the Pacific coast may see them on the same day.

How would Washington recognize any of that?
To begin with, the city of Washington didn't even exist in his day. He took the oath in New York; the site of the future capital was a barren plain beside the Potomac river. Washington didn't look forward to his inauguration at all. On the day he left Mount Vernon to take up his new duties he wrote in his diary: "About 10 o'clock I bade adieu to Mt. Vernon, to private life and to domestic felicity, and with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express, set out for New York in company with Mr. Thomson and Colonel Humphreys, with the best disposition to render service to my country in obedience to its calls, but with less hope of answering its expectations."

Travels in Carriage
The trip across country was made by carriage. The slow means of communication of those days are shown by the fact that while his term should have begun on March 4, he was not notified of his election until April 14. His trip began two days later, and he was not inaugurated until April 30.

Although he had only two companions on his 140-mile ride to New York, his progress was a succession of welcomes and ovations. Every city and town through which he passed staged a program in his honor.

At Trenton, N. J., which city he had taken from the British after his famous crossing of the Delaware, a huge triumphal arch, supported by 13 pillars, was raised over the principal street. As Washington passed under the arch, a delegation of girls dressed in white passed before him, singing songs and strewing flowers in his path. Then there was a great dinner and reception that evening in the town's principal tavern.

Finally he reached Elizabethtown, N. J., where New York's reception committee awaited him. There was a banquet, followed by a review of troops; then the party moved to a boat and was conveyed to New York. He was met by all city and state dignitaries and escorted in state to the house that had been chosen for his residence.

The First Inauguration
The inaugural day dawned clear and all the clergy held services in the churches to pray for the safety of the president. Promptly at noon, Washington headed the procession to the federal building—a three-story brick building on Wall street, which was the seat of the government in the early days of the republic.

Dressed in a suit of dark brown broadcloth, with knee breeches and silk stockings, with his hair powdered and with a sword at his side, Washington entered his carriage and was driven to the federal building. There he mounted to a balcony, where the ceremony was to take place.

But there was a last-minute hitch. Chancellor Robert Livingston, who was to administer the oath, had forgotten to obtain a Bible! There was a hurried search; finally someone remembered there was a Masonic lodge room nearby, and Chancellor Livingston hurried there, got the lodge's Bible, and took it to the balcony. The same Bible is used at inaugurations to this day.

Many Notables There
Alexander Hamilton, Baron von Steuben and other notables stood by as Washington took the oath and kissed the book. Then Chancellor Livingston, in a loud voice, cried "Long live George Washington, president of the United States!" The crowds in the street below cheered loudly, bells were rung, and a battery of artillery began firing a salute of 13 guns.

Washington stepped inside the building and delivered his inaugural address—not to the assembled crowds, but to the Senate chamber, where only members of Congress heard the speech.

Following this, the president and the congressmen went to St. Paul's church to attend divine worship.

No Inaugural Ball
That ended the inaugural. Martha Washington had not accompanied Washington to New York, so there was no inaugural ball.

Many sturdy Democrats of the day objected to the proceedings as too formal, and smacking of monarchy. There were also men who objected on the same principle, to Washington's wearing a sword. And Livingston's cry, "Long live George Washington," sounded to some too much like the English cry of "Long live the king."

In all of this ceremony there surely was not much that resembles the ceremony in which Hoover will be the principal figure. There were soldiers, there was a public taking of the oath and kissing of the Bible, there was a speech—but that's about the extent of the similarity.

GOVERNMENT IN
TRIBUTES TODAY
TO WASHINGTONPresident, Congress, Capital, Honored First President

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The President, Congress and the Capital City had arranged today to observe the 197th anniversary of George Washington's birth.

Ordinarily the Cabinet meets on Friday but this was dispensed with today as was the usual Friday press conference with the Chief Executive. Mr. Coolidge had on his engagement list tonight an address at George Washington University where he and Mrs. Coolidge were to receive the degrees of Doctor of Laws.

A section in the University auditorium had been reserved for members of the Cabinet, many of the Members of Congress, Ambassadors and Ministers from foreign countries and others prominent in official life.

A speech by Representative James M. Beck, authority on the Constitution, was the feature of the exercises arranged in the House. For many years it has been the custom for Washington's Farewell Address to be read but this year Representative Beck was asked to deliver an oration. Beck said that Washington's associates regarded him as a man of unusual gifts.

"Jefferson spoke of Washington's intellect as 'great and powerful,' Beck declared, 'and Patrick Henry said that of all the members of the first Continental Congress, Washington was foremost for solid information and sound judgment.'"

The Pennsylvania representative described Washington as having little faith that the Constitution would be a panacea. Beck declared that the safety of the union depended upon the preservation of the rights of the states.

Problem of Future
"The problem of the future," Beck asserted, "will be to preserve the just equipoise which the Constitution sought to maintain, between the power of the central government and the power of the states."

In the Senate the reading of Washington's Farewell Address had been assigned to Senator James Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who retires from Congress at the end of this term.

A part of the municipal exercises were planned under the auspices of the District of Columbia League for patriotic observance and Polli's theater had been reserved for them. The exercises included the presentation of the gavel used by Washington in laying the cornerstone of the capitol.

FIRST BALLOON PERMIT
Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—George

Washington while he was the nation's first President issued an order to permit the first balloon flight to be made in the United States.

This was disclosed today by Henry Woodhouse, president of the Aerial League of America, who said he found the authorization among Washington's documents. The authorization was granted by Washington, Woodhouse said, to J. P. Blanchard, a French aeronaut, who made at Philadelphia, then the national capital, the first balloon ascension in America on Jan. 9, 1793. President Washington was present at the ascension.

In his authorization, according to Woodhouse, Washington asked the American citizens to honor Blanchard for his "efforts to establish and advance an art in order to make it useful to mankind in general."

PRaise FROM ESME
Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Praising the Kellogg treaty as an instrument that "must weigh heavily in the balance for the cause of peace," Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, declared today that George Washington must eventually prove to be the greatest link in the chain of friendship and common understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

He was speaking here in commemoration of the 197th birthday anniversary of Washington to the daughters of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution and the Society of the Children of the American Revolution.

The Ambassador deplored any spirit of enmity between the two nations and criticized those on both sides of the Atlantic, whom, he said, "enjoy stirring up trouble between us, whose lips distill gall and wormwood and whose pens are dipped in vitriol." Turning to the Kellogg treaty, he denied that the nearly 60 nations that have signed it have done so without the intention of keeping their pledge, and asserted that the treaty had made an incalculable difference in world affairs by making it unmanly to go to war.

Then, projecting himself into an imaginary visit to Washington at Mount Vernon, the Ambassador pictured himself as observing, under prompting: "Well, General, if you wish it, I will say this, that I have noted that in political discussions regarding either domestic or foreign questions there is a tendency in this country, perhaps more than elsewhere, to indulge in somewhat unmeasured language."

"Ours is being called a 'lawless age.' Does it not go without saying that men and boys of the church ought to lead in the law-abiding and authority-respecting spirit? February is the month of Washington and Lincoln, two of the world's great counselors and leaders, in the matter of loyalty to law and order.

"Race prejudice is not dead. How are we 'touching' the man of other color and language? A cultured Chinese girl of the third generation of Christians, coming to America for advanced education found the waitresses around the University refusing to serve her. A negro scholar with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy could not find entertainment over-night in a central Illinois city. Will 'touches' of this sort build up friendship or hatred? Do they reflect the spirit of Jesus?"

Drifting roads kept away several from the country, but about ninety were present, and deeply enjoyed the wholesome, direct message from the Rockford pastor. Other numbers on the program were presented as published.

The class will hold its March meeting at the parsonage, with a mixed program by members of the class, special topics already assigned, or the general subject, "Politics." The men will also take an active part in the church's forward campaign climaxing Easter Week.

NOTRE DAME GLEE CLUB TO PRESENT CONCERT

Dixon music patrons who attend the Notre Dame Glee Club concert at the Dixon Theater, this evening, will hear a group of college men who have won the highest praise from some of the foremost critics of the country. Quoting the New Orleans Times-Picayune, Jan. 11, 1928, we note: "An evening of splendid music was offered Tuesday night by the University of Notre Dame Glee Club, a musical organization easily comparable in its finer movements to such groups as the Sistine Choir and the Ukrainian Chorus. There was a little of the horse play commonly associated with collegiate entertainments, and the audience ate it up. But, on the whole, the concert indicated the new trend in the direction of better music, more beautifully sung." It was demonstrated again that today's college boys, prospective business men of tomorrow, are beginning to take even so elemental an art as the singing with a proper sincerity. The officials of the University are well pleased with the comments that have been made concerning the Club, especially as they aid in showing that it is one of the outstanding college musical organizations in the United States.

Besides recording for both the Victor and Brunswick companies the Club was given the privilege of recording the first Vitaphone presentation ever allotted to a college society. This was done in Hollywood January 1928.

Much of the credit for the Club's fine record is due to the efforts of Joseph Casasanta, its conductor.

Last year the Club traveled from coast to coast covering an itinerary of some 9000 miles, singing in practically every large city in the East and the West. The Club will repeat its work by returning to the east this Easter, a tentative itinerary including—Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Binghamton, (N. Y.), New Rochelle, Garden City, and the city of New York. The widespread popularity is established.
